REPORT NO.

1. An employee of the Banco Municipal de Prestamos in Buenos Aires was approached recently by an unidentified person from the Argentine Ministry of Foreign Affairs and offered a position with the Ministry at a salary of 1000 pesos a month under the following terms:
  - a. He would travel to Costa Rica as an Argentine businessman;
  - b. In Costa Rica he would establish himself and his cover ;
  - c. Once established he would begin cultivating and entertaining prominent Costa Rican personalities and groups. His mission would be to spread anti-American propaganda and to extol the virtues and greatness of Argentina.
  - d. He would later be sent to other Latin countries, always under a business cover, to carry out the same mission.
2. Source believes that the bank employee did not accept the offer; however, he cites this instance as an example of the propaganda tactics Argentina may be using in Latin American countries.
